

Train the Trainer: Pediatric Disaster Management Instructor Training

Enhance Your Pediatric Disaster Preparedness Skills and Become an Instructor!
Enroll in the Pediatric Disaster Management: Modular Training Series Instructor Training

Why Pediatric Disaster Management (PDM) Matters

Children are uniquely vulnerable in disaster situations. By understanding differences between children and adults, and integrating practical strategies for response at all levels, attendees will be empowered to make a difference in the lives of children when it matters most. This comprehensive course, led by credentialed subject matter experts, equips attendees with the knowledge and skills to address the needs of children in disasters.

What You Will Learn

This live, two-day session is specifically designed to provide Train-the-Trainer instruction for prospective PDM Instructors. The core curriculum offers a multi-faceted approach to pediatric disaster management, covering three core areas:

- Levels of Disaster Response
- Specialized Topics
- Practical Application (specifically the Instructor Training track)

Who Should Attend

- Deployable asset teams
- Healthcare coalitions
- Healthcare providers
- Emergency management professionals
- Disaster-experienced professionals
- Pediatric care professionals
- Anyone interested in pediatric disaster preparedness
